

MICHELE TURNER COLLECTION

*We shall not cease from exploration
And the end of all our exploring
Will be to arrive where we started
And know the place for the first time...*

*What we call the beginning is often the end
And to make an end is to make a beginning
The end is where we started from...*

Extract from Little Gidding, T.S. Eliot

Michele Turner 1952 – 1995

Michele was born in Hobart, attended Mt Carmel College and later La Trobe University in Melbourne.

In 1974 she began working with the Commonwealth Employment Service and out of her experiences there, grew the idea for 'Stuck' her best-selling book about unemployment. She married, had two daughters, and began working on 'Telling', the book which would take ten years to write and involve her deeply in the issue of East Timor, including promoting Midnight Oil's use of the Timorese Choir in Sydney, and John Pilger's visit to East Timor to film 'Death of a Nation'.

Michele wrote: "I am grateful to all those who spoke to me and trusted me. I hope I have helped their words speak for their dead and silenced."

It is our responsibility now, to make sure that her life and her words live on.

Items from the Michele Turner collection are available for borrowing from the Global Learning Resource Library at A Fairer World.

Telling: East Timor Personal Testimonies 1942-1992

Michele Turner, 1992, Sydney: UNSW Press

Read online at <https://www.questia.com/library/65839089/telling-east-timor-personal-testimonies-1942-1992>

Shocking, moving and enlightening, these oral accounts from East Timorese people shed light on some of the most horrifying human rights abuses in our region.

Collected over ten years, these testimonies come from young and old, men and women, torture victims, health workers and ordinary people, most of whom have fled their homeland since the Indonesian invasion of 1975.

The book moves through time, from the relationships and experiences of the older Timorese and Australian veterans during the Japanese Occupation, accounts of the aftermath of the war and the end of Portuguese colonialism and finally the Indonesian invasion, and the warfare, deprivation, torture, repression and murder which has overshadowed life to the present day.
